MUSEUM PLANS APPROVED.

SUGGESTIONS OF THE ARCHITECTS NOT ADOPTED.

The Advisory Committee Proposed Certain Changes in Building the Projected Addition that Would, in the Committee's Optimition, improve the Besigns of the Tyrasces. The Advisory Committee of Architects appointed to determine as to the fitness of the plans adopted by the trustees of the Ameriplans adopted by the trustees.

Mr. Berg.—They are ready. If you want us pointed to determine as to the fitness of the plans adopted by the trustees of the Ameriean Museum of Natural History for an addi-tion to that structure and presented to the Park Board for approval, and also whether those plans were in conformity with the general plan for the museum adopted by the Park Department in 1872, made their report at yesterday's meeting of the Park Commissioners.

DEAR SIR: We have carefully examined the designs prepared by Mesars. J. C. Cady & Co. for the proposed additions to the Museum of Natural History, have visited the museum buildings, have read the documents submitted to us by the Park Commission, and have heard what the architects, the trustees of the Museum, and the Commissioners have had to asy upon the points that have been brought to our attention.

These points are five in number, namely;
I. The new galleries—arrangement of plan. and lighting.

II. Treatment of their exterior walls and of their interior or court walls.

III. The proposed facing up of the north end iII. The proposed facing up of the north end of the old wing.
IV. The location of the proposed new lec-posed lecture hall.

If in respect to the new galleries, we find the general arrangement and provision for lighting satisfactory, and see no improvement

In The proposed treatment of the external walls of these new galleries on the side toward Seventy seventh street is simple and effective, and in harmony with the portion of the front already erected.

Saventy-seventh street is simple and effective, and in harmony with the portion of the front aiready erected.

The treatment of the interior or court walls, while simple and severe, seems sufficiently elaborate for their future purpose, and of a sufficiently architectural character to harmonize with the walls of the existing gallery with which they will come into comparison.

Ill. The scheme for facing the north end of the present gallery seems to us unnecessary. The adjoining building will eventually without doubt conceal this end completely. Meanwhile, and until the above structure is completed, there will always be two other unfinished gable ends, quite as conspicuous as this, and there seems no special reason why this should be treated differently from the others.

IV. As to the octagonal building in which it is proposed to place the large lecture hall, we find that it is intended to build it almost exactly upon the lines of the original deaign of the museum as drawn up in 1872. This design exhibits a central octagonal building, from four sides of which extend wings six or seven stories in height. In theoriginal scheme this octagonal space appears as a sort of retinds, serving as a central exhibition hall. The trustees now propose to build up the walls of this octagon to the height of two or three stories, and to occupy the interior with a lecture room which the law requires. This is the only spot now accessible in which such a lecture room can be placed, and we do not find that there is any difference of opinion in any quarter as to the policy of occupying substantially this place with a building of substantially this tual conformity with the original scheme, and in partial execution of it.

The plans for this structure, as they were adopted by the trustees and brought by them before the Park Commissioners and before curselves, were so drawn as to convey the impression that this occupation of the central octagon by the lecture room was intended to be a permanent arrangement. This would have blocked the passage between the galleries contained in the adjacent wings, and would have left the central and most important portion of the sitte in possession of the least imposing portion of the structure. This impression was strengthened and confirmed by the suggestion that even if this octagonal building were so occupied communication between the adjacent galleries might ultimately be established, whenever necessary, by means of external corridors surrounding the lecture hall on all sides. In fact, two different schemes for such galleries were brought to our notice, and we naturally inferred that it was the soticed policy of the trustees permanently to retain the lecture room in this place. If this was alse the understanding of the Park Commissioners it seems to us that their hesitation to approve these plans was entirely justified. Projected as a finality, the scheme would unquestionably be open to criticism as not offering a sufficiently important and dignified architectural feature for the central position, and as noticlearly indicating any final solution of the problems involved. But we now learn from the trustees that this was a misconception, and that while they regard the central ectagon itself as a permanent structure, they consider that the use to which it shall be put in a matter to be determined from time to time by the requirements of the museum. The drawings showed, indeed, that if it should prove desirable permanently to occupy it for a lecture room if would be practicable to do so, corridors being shown round it to establish communication between the adjacent wings. But they were not intended to favor this alternative form the lecture room into an exhibition room if, assessms probable, it is uitimately decided to do so.

V. In view of the fact that the chief part, if not the whole, of the exterior of this octagon will ultimately be hidden, we would recommend that the treatment of the walls be kept as simple as a reasonable regard for architectural effect will permit. The shape and dimansions of this building and the purposes for which it is adapted are so different from the building to which it is attached that a elese conformity is neither to be expected nor specially to be desired.

In answer to the questions submitted to us, then, we have to say that, having examined the plans adopted by the trustees and carefully considered all the information we have been able to obtain, we are of opinion that the designs adopted by the trustees and submitted to the Park Commissioners for their approval are proper and are suited to the purpose for which the existing building is intended, and that they are calculated to meet the requirements of the museum.

We recommend accordingly that the Commissioners approve the designs adopted by the trustees, subject to the suggestion we have made in regard to the facing up of the horth gable wall.

It seems clear, however, that the present has made in regard to the suggestion we have made in regard to the facing up of the horthgable wait.

It seems clear, however, that the present lecture room is amply sufficient for the immediate needs of the new museum, and that the building of a new lecture room at this time is not required for the needs of the museum and specially desired by the trustees.

We venture to suggest accordingly that the trustees of the museum and the Park Compaisioners should unite in requesting the Legislature to amend the act of May, 1892, by substituting the word "may" for the word shall, so that the trustees may be free to use the money put at their disposal in the manner which in their judgment, will best serve the interests of the museum and of the public. We are, respectfully, your obedient will also the servants, President Jesup of the museum trustees asked President Dana what his feeling was in regard to the report of the architects.

"I find." said Mr. Dana. "that there runs all through this report a sentiment that the plans only call for a temporary structure so far as the lecture hall is concerned, and that the architects realize that as a permanency it is not in accord with the general plan for the sempleted building. They agree that the response of the museum until the building shall reach at the museum until the building shall reach such a stage that it may be provided for elsewhere, and suggest the vostponement of the steel in of the new lecture hall while legislation is procured which will do away with the seesafty for such a building."

Commissioner Gray—The business of recompanding legislation belongs to the trustees. It is approve the plans.
President Dana—But let us first discuss this report.

Mr. Jesup—If the Board will approve these.

Fresident Dana—But the us first discuss this report.

All, issue—If the Board will approve these plans i will agree to call the trustees together and ass that action be suspended and that they cooperate with this Board to secure legislation which will amend the present law so as to make it permissive instead of mandatory in the matter of building this lecture hall. I appreciate the recommendation of the architects in this regard.

President Dana called attention to the fact that the plans presented for the Board's approval were incomplete, and that no plan for the central structure or rotunds had been adopted by the Board of Trustees, and until this was done that the Park Board could not properly approve them.

Commissioner Gray—I am opposed to any attent delay, such as sending these plans back to the trustees would becessitate. Let us wite on the change as to the faring of the plans.

Mr. Jesup.—If you will approve the plans as presented I will call the trustees together.

President Dans.—That is not my idea of the way the business of the city should be done.

The President put the motion on Commissioner Tappen a resolution, which was adopted by a vote of three to one. President Dans alone being recorded in the negative.

Col. W. C. Church of, the Eriesson Statue Commistee asked the Board to approve the following inseription for the statue's base:

"John Eriesson. The city of New York creets this monument to the memory of a citizen whose genius has contributed to the greatness of the republic and to the progress of the world."

President Dans moved to insert after the world."

This was opposed by Col. Church, and was voted down by the other Commissioners.

Commissioner Gray said that, in his opinion, the Park Board was improperly constituted, and he moved to proceed to the election of a President to serve until May I. He said that President Dans had been holding over as Commissioner, and that he should be reflected. The other members of the Board did not agree with Mr. Gray, and the question on his motion was not put.

Commissioner Gray called attention to the fact that Contractor Horgan is proceeding very slowly in cleaning the mud from the bottom of the Fifty-ninth street pond in Central Park. The Board of Health will be asked to inspect the work and report as to possible danger therefrom.

Mr. Gray tried to secure the approval of his proposed hill giving the entire control of Fifth avenue below the Central Park to the Park Board, but his effort was not successful because of the opposition of President Dans and Commissioner Tappen.

The foasibility of widening the sast drive in Central Park was discussed, and the matter was re

REPUBLICAN JERSEY CITY.

Fac-reaching Effects of Simpson's Unexpect Election as Alderman at Large,

The Democrats in Jersey City and Hudson county have not recovered from the shock the result of Tuesday's election gave them. The election of Reuben Simpson as Alderman at Large makes both the Board of Aldermon and the Board of Finance Republican. Mr. Simpson becomes a member of the Board of Finance by virtue of his election as Alderman at Large. Two vacancies will occur in that Board on April 23 by the expiration of the terms of John Edelstein, a Democrat, and George W. Peterson, a Republican.
Under the charter of 1889 Mayor Wanser would have the power to appoint their successors, and he would be obliged to appoint a Democrat and a Republican, because the law provides that there shall not be more than a majority of either political party in the Beard.

A Democrat and a Republican hold over, and the Alderman at Large, therefore, determines the political complexion of the Beard.

The Legislature last winter enacted a law for the purpose of curtailing Mayor Wanser's powers. The previous Mayor had the absolute power of appointing the members of all the Boards. The new law requires him to make his nominations to the Board of Finance, and a three-fourths vote of that Board's so necessary for confirmation. The law applies to the Board of Finance as well as to all the other municipal Boards, so that the Mayor's nominations to fill the coming wacancies will be submitted to the present Board for confirmation. If confirmation is refused in their case, or in the case of any of any other official nominated by the Mayor, the present official nominated by the Mayor, the present official hold over. If the law is good Mayor Wanser will be unable to make any appointments or change the political complexion of any Board. The two Democrats now on the Board of Finance will control the situation. However, that the law is undonstitutional, and a very complicated condition of affairs is likely to arise. Mayor Wanser may ignore the law and make his appointments without regard to it. In that case there would be a contest for the possession of the offices by force would doubtless be related to the police, and any attempt to take possession of the offices by force would doubtless be related to the police, and any attempt to take possession of the offices by force would doubtless be related to the police and any attempt to take possession of the offices by force would appoint an aggressive Republican in Kelly's place, he and Commissioner Van Keuren could make things lively if they formed a combination. There might be a dual Board. Commissioner Kelly, and provided this plan. He may ignore the law and appoint a strong Republican and a nomination of the Board of Finance, and he and Fresident Feeney would control the department.

It has been s A Democrat and a Republican hold over, and two, with all Hiller, the Republican who holds over, may effect an organization.

Then the Mayor can submit his nominations to the Board thus organized and have the required three-lourths vote for confirmation. City Clerk Scott might be an inaurmountable obstacle to the success of this plan by recognizing the law of last winter, and refusing to administer the oath of office to the Mayor's appointess until after the Board of Finance had confirmed them.

A Republican Holdover in Rhode Island. NewFort, April 12.—The bye-election in Jamestown to-day again resulted in no choice, and Landers, the Republican sitting member holds over. Smith Dem., had a plurality of 11 over Landers, but lacked 2 of a majority over all, there being 13 Prohibition votes. The Democrats claim that money was freely used to defeat Smith's election.

Significant Election in Canada.

OTTAWA, April 12.-The election of the Liberal candidate in Vandreuil to-day strikes a severe blow at the Government, which held the seat last session. Harwood ran on the straight Liberal ticket, advocating the closest possible trade relations with the United States and the American market as Canada's natural market, against the Government's policy of excluding foreign manufacture from the Dominion.

Mrs. English noticed the attachment of the pair to each other, and finally let the new animal become a member of the household In time Mrs. English became attached to Ike's chum, and named her Kitty. Mrs. English had trained the old cats to eat on a small high table in the kitchen. They became accustomed to the table, and afterward would eat nowhere less. The young cat was named Sam, and when he grew up he was trained to wait for his food until the old cats had finished. Sam was very dainty in his eating and would not touch either food or water from any dish out of which his parents had eaten or drank unless it was first eleansed. Sam and his mother took a great liking to each other, and though the three pets much preferred sleeping in Mrs. English's room, she finally trained them to sleep in a bed made of quilts on the ice box. Sam had a habit of sleeping across the mother. Another litter was born to the mother cat. SIX MANUFACTURERS ARRESTED.

The Clothing Cutters Carry Out Their Threat Against the Employers. The long-threatened move of the striking clothing cutters against the mapufacturers was made yesterday. Six of the manufacturers were arrested on war-rants secured from Justice Burke in the Tombs Police Court. Lawyers Abraham L and Herman Fromme of 132 Nas sau street secured warrants on charges sworn to by David Koos of 196 Stanhope street. Brooklyn, Charles F. Reichers of 75 Skillman avenue, Brooklyn, and Henry White of 196 Stanhops street, Brooklyn, all of the Clothing avenue. Brooklyn, and Henry White of 196 Stanhops street. Brooklyn, all of the Clothing Cutters' Union. These were executed by Detectives O'Connor and Canavan of the Tombs squad.

In the afternoon Lewis M. Hornthal of 6 East Seventy-eighth street Lee Kaufman of 15 Waverley place, David T. Newburg of 33 Enst Sixy-seventh street, Albert T. Hochstadter of 105 East Sixy-first street, B. Holzman of 257 Lenox avenue, and J. Tronstine of 159 West Seventy-second street, the manufacturers for whom the warrants had been issued, were arraigned on a charge of conspiracy against the cutters. Lawyer Louis Adler of Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson appeared for the defendants, and as there was no objection the examination was set down for April 19, at 20 clock. The accused were paroled in the custody of their lawyer.

The arresis, however, did not put a stop to the negotiations for a settlement between the manufacturers and the cutters.

A meeting of the manufacturers was held at 644 Broadway at 4 O'clock in the afternoon, at which the following were appointed as a committee to confer with a committee of the men at this meeting: J. N. Heidelberg, I. M. Hoenthal, H. S. Mendelson, Emmanuer, Julius Hammerslough, and Marcus I. Marks.

The committee appointed by the men consisted of Harry White. Charles F. Reichers, Charles Smith, and John Zuber.

President Greenhut Tolle a Rather G Pronts. Ill., April 12.—The annual meetiles of the Dietilling and Cattle Feeding Company was held here to-day. The interest centred in the annual report made by President Green hut, as he gave an exhaustive history and full details of all the transactions of the company during the part year. He said:

"The Board of Directors last fall, believing the chances for profit were greater than for a loss, decided to increase the output and pur-chased four competing distilleries. No set of men ever acted more conscientiously, but the hopes of the directors were not realized. The company is now carrying a stock of snirits fully three times as great as was ever carried by the company before, and it takes a large amount of money to earry these goods; it has amount of money to earry these goods; it has absorbed all the ready cash of the company and forced it to borrow as well. The company will be somewhat pressed to meet obligations during the next ninely days.

"No dividend could have been paid without borrowing money for that purpose, which the directors did not feel warranted in doing.

"The total sales for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1893, were 45,087,634 gallons. A summary of the company's financial statement for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1893, shows:

March 31, 1893, were spiritual astatement for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1893, shows:

"Total earnings, $2,432,688; dividends and expenses paid, $1,207,158; cash and each assets held by the company April 1, 1893, $3,183,893,against which there were liabilities, including rebates due the trade. Balance due on the four distilleries last purchased and floating indebtedness amounted to $3,082,287.

"Owing to many rumors inimical to the interests of the company the trade has become very restive and suspicious as to its ability to pay rebates when due. The only feasible solution for this emergency is to issue bonds recured by a first lien on the property of the company and place the bonds in the hands of a trustes, to be held as a guarantee for the payment of rebate vouchers." President directhut adds:

"We have all the distillers capacity necessary to supply the trade for years to come; consequently we must discontinue the policy of purchasing any more competing distilleries, as such policy only offers a premium for the building of new distilleries. The only safe and reliable way of overcoming competition is to produce goods at the lowest possible cost and sell them direct to consumers at the lowest prices."

President Greenhut recommends purchasing such distributing establishments as may be necessary or desirable, and issuing heads to raise the necessary capital for that purpose.

The following were elected directors for three years:

William N. Hobart and Lewis H. Greene, Cincinnati, O.: John E. Beggs of Terre Haute and J. Walter Freiberg of Cincinnati, for one year.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will take place to-morow. All the old officers will probably be redected.

Mr. Potter, with his daughters, the Miseas Grace and Bertha Potter, were passengers on the White Star steamsirip Majestic, which sailed from Liverpool for New York on Jan. 20, 1802. In the seven insular which as Jan. 20, 1892. In the seven trunks which con-stituted the baggage of the young women they had packed the outlits of gowns and frou-frou which were to carry them through their stay of half a year or so in America.

Mr. Potter himself looked out for the bo ing, and saw that the latels which the steam-ship company pasted on the trunks bearing the name and address of the owners of the various parcels were also marked "Hold." to designate the part of the vessel in which they Were to be stowed for the voyage.

When Miss Grace Potter examined her baggage after the Majestic arrived here she found that her beautiful Paris clothing was ruined. The articles were soaked with salt water. Some frail things had shrunk, others had lost their beauty of color, others their symmetry of form. The baggage of her sister and that of their maid was also ruined.

Mr. Potter complained to the White Star

Company, but got no satisfaction, and in February, 1892, a libel was filed against the Majestic for the value of the clothing. The bill of complaint did not specify how many gowns. bonnets, and other articles the Misses Potter jestic for the value of the clothing. The bill of complaint did not specify how many gowns, bonnets, and other articles the Misses Potter had brought over, but it is said that Miss Grace Potter's five trunks contained wearing apparel valued at $1,311. The contents of the two trunks of Miss Bertha Potter were valued at $1,314.50. The maid's loss was fixed at $2,03.

Among the witnesses whose depositions in the Admiralty proceedings have been taken are Mr. Howard Potter and his two daughters, Capt. Parsell, Chief Officer Smith, and Purser Parry of the Majestic. The case was presented to Judge Brown in the United States District Court on Tuesday. Briefs will be filed to-day by Lawyers William P. Butler of Cary & Whitridge for the Misses Potter, and Everett P. Wheeler for the White Star Company.

It appears from the evidence of the officers of the ship that the baggare labels directed, but in the stoerage. Baggare is not infrequently stowed in the steerage is not fully occupied by passengers, because it is more conveniently stowed there than in the hold. On the morning of Jan. 25, 1892, feur days after leaving Queenstown, the Majestic passed a lot of wreekage. Capt. Parselitestined that he saw what he took to be the top works of a large ship. Chief Officer Smith also and the wreekage. It was on the port side of the Majestic.

Subsequent to the passing of the wreekage Chief Officer Smith found that one of the ports in the mail room was broken. He had noticed water leaking around the edges of a bulkhead door leading from one compartment to another. When he opened the door agreat deal of water ran out. He found that the water had been three feet deep in the steerage compartment in the had not inspected that compartment in five days. By the ship's regulations the chief officer should have inspected the compary will not be liable for lose of damage to begage in a greater sum than $50, and not in any sum for loses or damage to the Majestic, the baggage in the hold, and also that the empaly considint the company does not Tarred and Feathered Him. REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., April 12.-At Morton, this county, yesterday morning, twenty or thirty men disguised as white caps dragged a man from his bed, tarred and feathered him and rode him on a rail. The man, who is a fireman on the Minneapolis and St. Louis nreman on the Minneapolia and St. Louis road, was in a frightful condition when res-cued. The cause of the trouble is said to be that on a previous evening the fireman tech one of the girls employed in the Morton eating house out to a secluded place and attempted to assault her.
